Irvine H. Anderson is Manager, Human Resource Development in General Electric's Aircraft Engine Business Group in Cincinnati. He holds a B.A. in Political Science from Rhodes College in Memphis, Tennessee, and an M.A. and Ph.D. in History from the University of Cincinnati. His career spans three fields. In the 1950s he was a Naval Air Intelligence Officer in the Pacific, and retains the rank of Lt. Cmdr. His tenure with GE began in 1956 in Employee Relations. In 1968 he transferred into academia, completed his doctorate, and taught American Diplomatic History and East Asian History at the University of Cincinnati. While there, he wrote several award-winning books and articles, including The Standard-Vacuum Oil Company and United States East Asian Policy, 1933-1941 (Princeton University Press, 1975; winner of the 1977 Newcomen Award in Business History), and Aramco, the United States and Saudi Arabia: A Study in the Dynamics of Foreign Oil Policy, 1933-1950 (Princeton University Press, 1981). Both books were analyses of organizational dynamics. In 1979 he returned to General Electric, and has held his present position since 1983. Dr. Anderson is a Presbyterian Elder and past member of the Council of Theological Seminaries of the Presbyterian Church.
