The Rev. Dr. Russell Bradner Norris, Jr. is Associate Professor of Systematic Theology and Director of Contextual Education at Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary in Columbia, South Carolina. As Director of Contextual Education, he oversees the Seminary's internship, field education, and clinical pastoral education programs. In addition, he teaches courses in Christian ethics, theology and practice, religion and science, and interfaith dialogue.

Dr. Norris is the author of God, Marx, and the Future (Fortress, 1974) and was a co-author of Christians and the Many faces of Marxism (Augsburg, 1984). He has written on a wide variety of topics, including the Christian-Marx encounter, religion and science, ecumenical and interfaith relations, and the arts. His articles have appeared in The Journal of Ecumenical Studies, Dialog, Taproot, and Zygon. In 1993, Dr. Norris was invited to be a Visiting Scholar at the Chicago Center for Religion and Science.

Dr. Norris and his wife, Dixie, reside in West Columbia, South Carolina.
